Audio Clip 1

Hello and welcome. We get into the meat today, by the way. Hello to all of you that are watching on Jovian Archive TV. Welcome to Ibiza where everything is wonderful, right?

I think you've gathered by now that my particular theme in this event is deeply connected to mind, and to looking at mind in many different ways. I've been in a very long and deep process in digging into the mechanics of Human Design. I talk a lot about Strategy and Authority. Somebody who is collating some of my courses said that in a 11-week course I managed to say it 75 times. And everything begins with Strategy and Authority. I'm building up my count.

The deep exploration into the way in which we are programmed, the way in which these vehicles operate, the way in which we interact with the neutrino program, that has brought me two sets of revealed knowledge. Both of which I find almost hard to just nod my head to and say, "Wow, isn't that something; it's here," because I have yet to find the language or the place inside of myself where I've reached a point where I understand for myself what the value to our kind is in PHS and Rave Psychology.

We Are Dualistic

There are things that are revealed in this that are not only extraordinary, but help to explain one of the great dilemmas of ignorance that we all have about the nature of our being and the way in which we are intended or supposed to be able to operate. I don't think there is anything more profound in the knowledge than being able to see that this dualistic system is something that is expressed almost to its perfection in us, because we are truly dualistic creatures.

Something to understand is that dualism moves through everything. It is the basic construct; it is the basic formula. And there is something that makes the nine centered being incredibly unique, not simply that we have a binary consciousness, but to be able to understand that we have had a mutation, and we have had a mutation in our neocortex, actually in the visual cortex. In fact, we have a different kind of mind system than has ever existed before. There is nothing like it.

An Evolutionary Story

In order to be able to get you to a place where you understand this or can at least understand the premise of the way in which this operates, I've got to take you through an evolutionary story. That's my real fun, I guess. It's the thing that surprised me the most when I realized what I had as knowledge was that I could participate in evolution, that it didn't have to be an hindsight viewer of evolution, but I could see it all around me and at work.

The moment that you're given a formula, the beauty of this formula is that this formula can be looked at from many different perspectives. Let's take a look at our family tree; that is, the family tree that has led to us so-called Homo sapiens. If we go back to an early member of this family, they lived here, by the way. As a matter of fact, they flourished here, mostly on the peninsula. That is, on the peninsula of Spain.

One of the things I love so deeply about this place is that it has always been a place where just about every ancient Mediterranean force has set its foot. One of the things that makes the peninsula of Spain so fascinating is that it's the last place on earth where Cro-Magnon and Neanderthal lived, not so much together, but in the same environment, and competed, within the same environment.

We know a fair bit about the Neanderthal. It's not like we know a lot, unfortunately. What we know from people that lived so long ago is what they have left behind. What I was given to understand is that we have had a form development evolution, that there was a point in which we were single centered, binary centered, trinary centered. From the three to the five, from the five to the seven, from the seven to the nine and with some kind of a promise of the eleven.

The Neanderthal Was a Five Centered Receptive Being

The Neanderthal was a five centered being. It was a five centered being, that I will describe to you in a language of Rave Psychology, who was exclusively receptive. Let me give you a simple explanation of this, because I will take you further into it.

What does receptive mean? In order to be receptive, there can be no ability within the neocortex to focus, only the ability to be able to absorb at a sensory level, and to be able to respond to the absorption.

The Most Ancient Type Is Reflector

I did a class not too long ago, one of those lectures—I think it was a Mystic Monologue lecture—that I wanted to give for a quite a while because it was clear to me that I finally grasped the evolutionary tree of form, in the sense of Type. One of things I began with was understanding that the most ancient Type, and please, I'm not speaking in specifics, but as a general metaphor, because I don't know how the mechanics worked then, that it is obvious to me that the most ancient Type is the Reflector. We all arose out of the Reflector.

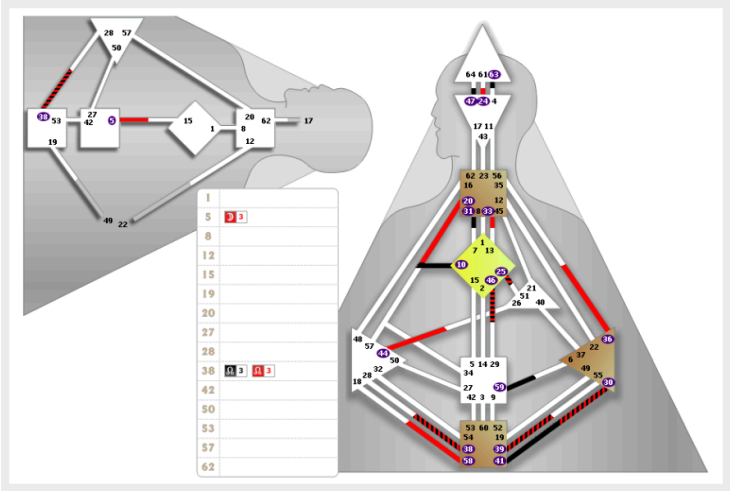
Dream Rave Definition Mostly Reflector

It's so interesting to look at Dream Rave. Dream Rave is a calculation you can make for a human being in order to understand the way in which they are programmed while they sleep. One of the oddities of being human is that it's only in sleep that we return to our mammalian nature. When we do this calculation, we get to see the human life within the mammalian matrix.



Source: Maia Mechanics Imaging (MMI) | DreamRave Extension Module

When we look at human beings through Dream Rave, we get to see that they are diametrically opposed in terms of their Definition to human beings in life. In life where 90% of humanity is an energy Type, in the Dream Rave, it's exactly the other way around. And the vast majority of human beings are Reflectors while they sleep.

If you have a dog or cat, the chances are two out of three times you're going to have a Reflector. The same is true as you move down in the chain in forms because there are less and less possibilities mechanically for Definition to take place.

If we go back to the root of the way in which we were intended to operate, if you go back to the five centered being, the vast majority of five centered beings were Reflectors, and there was a smattering of what we would call Manifesting Generators, but mostly just Reflector. In that, understand that these were beings without any precondition about the way in which life itself functioned. They were fully surrendered at a very mammalian level to what life offered.

What is interesting as a example is that we're going to see the evolution from the five centered Neanderthal to the seven centered so-called modern human, and modern meaning it ended in 1781, but nonetheless, the seven centered, the Hindu Brahmin, Chakra seven centered being.

The Left: Purely Strategic

The moment we go from the Neanderthal and we go to Cro-Magnon, what we go from is Right and purely receptive to Left and purely strategic. Now, strategic is something different. Strategic is the ability of the mind to be able to focus. And in being able to focus, being able to calculate. It is this ability to be able to calculate that was going to give co-called Cro-Magnon its advantage over every other species on the plane.

Think about the relationship between the Right and the Left. There's something that fascinates me about Neanderthals, is that they made music. I have a soft spot for musicians. There is something magical about music. And what we know from brain studies is that music is hardwired into all of us, and that music was there in that early form.

What was so interesting about the Neanderthal is that they could create a bow to make music, but not to create an arrow to fly from it. And Cro-Magnon man—Left—would take that bow and put an arrow in it and shoot the Neanderthal. Oh well.

We Are a Mutative Transitional Form

When you look at the BodyGraph and you go down beneath the surface what you see that we are a little bit Neanderthal and a little bit Cro-Magnon, in a totally new cycle. What I try to get across is an understanding that we—this nine centered configuration—are a mutative transitional form that began to come onto this plane in 1781.

We are different from our ancestors, and it's very important to understand. We're about to go through a major mutation. In fact, the mutation has been at work since 1781, a mutation that is taking place in the Solar Plexus Center. They have already discovered more neural activity in a human Solar Plexus than there is in a human brain. There is stuff going on in there. We have an extraordinary mutation that is opening us up to a different kind of sensory process, because the sensory process is the difference between Left and Right.

The Larynx Mutation

So, let me show you how this sort of works. Let's think about the Left. As far as I know, 85 to 90,000 years ago—this is scientific—there was a mutation that took place in the larynx in humans, in Homo sapiens. That mutation in the larynx opened up the potential of what the modern being is and opened up the potential of the development of the strategic mind.

The Neanderthal as a Right receptive creature was willing to accept what nature gave it. There was very little attempt to try to control the forces. But the moment that you see the advent of the seven centered being, that seven centered being that's dominated our world for the last 100,000 years, that being had an agenda.

It was not there simply to breathe in and to live in the natural order. Oh no, it was about creating a new order, the chaos that would lead to us, the chaos of mind, what Lao Tzu knew. The moment he caught a sniff of what modern man really was, he wanted to go back to Neanderthal. "U-turn, please. I don't like where all this is going. It's nasty business."

Tones

Everything about the Left is that it's rooted in our animal-ness. If you look at the BodyGraph, at the same time you're looking at that triangle, you're also looking at the architecture underneath. The graphic that we use to lay out a Tone is a triangle, because it is the infrastructure of what we are.

Those Tones are broken up into three groups. There is a Splenic binary, an Ajna binary and a Solar Plexus binary. Each of these Tones in their groups represent certain sensory ability, cognition, the source of your intelligence. And when we're looking at this Tonal configuration, Tones 1, 2 and 3 are Left. Tones 4, 5 and 6 are Right.

Tones 1, 2 and 3: Survival and Fear

So, let's look at 1, 2 and 3 and think about what strategic is. First of all, the strategic is rooted in the Spleen. It is deeply connected to the mammalian way of life. It is deeply connected to one theme only: survival. It's all about survival; only about survival.

Remember something about fear. Fear is the root of intelligence. The fear that is there in the Splenic System is the root of the development of a sophisticated defense and offensive system. This is what the Left does. The Left looks at a possible threat. "My neighbors; I don't think they like me." You look at that possible threat and figure out what to do, firebomb their house, whatever. Because everything about the Left is looking out and seeing where the threat is. And the threat never goes away.

A Strategic Mind: Ramses II

You see these people; they think they're above threat and they're not. And they can build layers and layers and layers of protection. But the forces want you, they'll get you. The symbol of the strategic being, the strategic mind, for me was Ramses II. This was the biggest bullshitter who ever lived. This is somebody that told the most colossal lies. If you go through Egypt, they're still there, the propaganda posters carved into stone by slaves.

There are many of them that described incredible victories that never took place. He went out to battle; he was going to battle the Hittites. Now, the Hittites were mean. You don't go battle these people. He was going to prove himself. He was a young king, went there and had the crap beat out of him, comes back, and has monuments carved all over Egypt celebrating his victory.

This is a strategic mind. This is an agenda; this is the mind lying to get its thing. And it wasn't like they had CNN or Al Jazeera, they didn't know what went on. They didn't know that the Hittites won. Nobody was going around saying, "Where are all the soldiers?" No, they were just orders to the monument builders, "Build the monuments and tell everybody we won." We see that on CNN now all the time.

This is the Left. This is what the Left mind does. It creates strategies and the strategies are rooted in survival. Survival is offense and defense. Of course, we know what happens when you give humans a reason to be offensive. I don't mean to elaborate on that one.

The thing that makes the Tonal infrastructure so interesting is that everything about the Tones, Left and Right, meet in the center. They meet in the Ajna. When we're looking at the Left, we're looking at a visual power. You think about us and look at other creatures, this movement that took place in our evolution in which the eyes moved more and more to the front, this binocular vision, this ability for us to be able to pinpoint and focus is all so that we have the ability to visually coordinate.

We are not the fastest, not the strongest, we're not any of those things. But are we good at killing; this is strategic. This is the strategic working together with a common focus. The thing about the strategic, because it is rooted in the expression through the eyes is that the mind that is watching the movie takes control.

The moment that we had the mutation that moved us away from the five centered receptive Neanderthal to the seven centered strategic human is the moment that we began to conquer the planet. It is the moment that we would not allow anything to threaten us. And when we were through conquering the planet, we discovered that it was us that were a threat to us, until we got to the madness of mutually assured destruction where everybody had enough bombs to turn the planet into a crispy. This is the Left.

The thing about the Left is that there are always holes in its knowing because the whole thing about Left is that you're focused on something. And in being focused on something, there are many things you do not see. And because you're Left and you focus on one thing and you don't see others, you become easily influenced.

The Beginning of the Nine Centered Being

Think about the life we live. In 1781, the nine centered being began to come into this world. It means seven centered beings died out around the 1880s or the 1890s, the very last of them. Everything in world around us is still strategic. And yet, half of the babies that have been born since 1781 are not. And there is an enormous suffering that is taking place on this plane because of it.

That seven centered being gave us everything that humanity accepts and believes in. It's the seven centered being that created God. That's good strategy, right? The ultimate answer to the ultimate fear. You've got this incredible fear. You're afraid of what's going to happen. You're afraid of death. You're afraid of thunder and you're afraid of this and that.

The Strategic Mind and Fear

I never forget the image of Abraham as a boy. His father lived in Ur in Mesopotamia and he was an idol maker, carving stone idols for people to bow down to. And there is this boy watching his father carve these idols, seeing them out in the square in the village, everybody bowing down. The old man, the wino, carving at night.

Of course, when things went bad, those gods got destroyed; the golden calf.

Only the strategic mind could come up with a god that couldn't be challenged. It still works today. It's a perfect strategic solution. And it is a perfect way in which the strategic wraps you up and gives you your agenda because that's what it does. You're afraid, you do what we tell you to do, then you won't be afraid. Not only that, we have people who talk to God every day, who are going to be your guides. They dress up in funny costumes.

You have to understand something about—I don't mind that the Left existed. I'm Left. In terms of what Left is now, I'm mostly Left. I'm very connected and understand the way in which—Strategy and Authority—that operates. I'm an inheritor as a nine centered being of that over there, but I'm not all Left, because nine centered beings are not. We're different.

The Strategic Brought Competition

But because of my own strategic awareness, I understand what that brought. It is those agendas to protect us that have locked us into the moralities, the religions, the rules. And all of it is rooted in fear. Not only is all of it rooted in fear, but the moment you have the strategic, you have competition. You have winners and losers. You have victims and slaves.

We Live in a Strategic World

I look out at the world around me, everything that's here now, the incredible technology and all these things. None of it is ours. It's all borrowed technology from seven centered beings. Take a look at the way your children are trained in a school. It is the same system that has been used from the beginning. It's all strategic. And of course, the dilemma is that half of our children are not. Not only are they not, but they're different.

Everything about the Left is about being able to play and manipulate the Maia for their own safety. And everything about the Right is simply absorbing it. There is nothing else, and it is very different. Everything about the way of life we have, the way we do things, everything about our arrangements with each other all come from strategic thinking.

Seven Centered Consciousness

We're not seven centered beings. We think like seven centered beings because we're conditioned to think this way. This is not the way we are intended to operate as nine centered beings. We're not built the same way.

The thing that Lao Tzu saw was that the seven centered being was mind. I've been telling you all week that we are not mind. We're different. We see what mind has brought us to on this road of civilization, that the vast majority of our own species are so desperate it's not nice. We are not a successful species; you can see that.

The Dilemma Is Self-Reflected Consciousness

The dilemma is self-reflected consciousness. This is the dilemma. It makes the suffering so incredible because you make it up all the time. And everything about the way in which your mind has been trained is that it's been trained strategically. You find your focus. You figure out how to do things and you do it. You concentrate, put your attention to it, and you create intent.

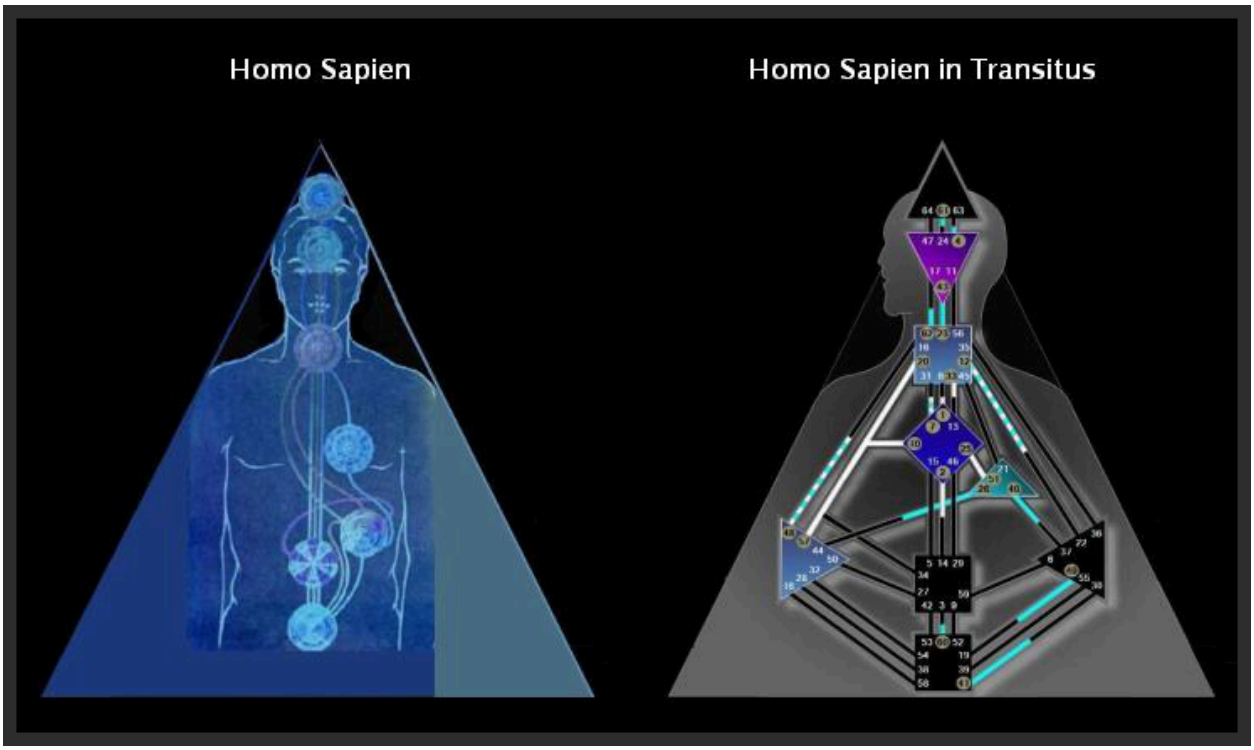
Do you know how many people are selling intent now? This is sick; it's like telling people to take serotonin. They have no idea what this is about. Intent is wonderful if you're not-self. It's perfect. It's like masturbation; it gives you some false pleasure.

Everything about the way in which we manage our lives is that it's all based on all these strategic formulas. The way your parents raised you is based on strategic formulas. And it's all based on survival. So, we end up as a creature being absolutely terrified and spending our whole lives trying to control that with our minds.

And we end up with the not-self world. We end up with dysfunction where human beings are not correct, don't nourish themselves correctly, are not in the right environments, do not act as a passenger consciousness. They're just deeply lost in the program.

Homo Sapiens in Transitus

The dilemma is not whether mind is Left or Right, we are unusual creatures. I call us 'Homo Sapiens in Transitus'. We are in transition, there is a change taking place. It is in this transition that we give birth to what's next, which means we're at the end of our usefulness.



When the Voice gave me the knowledge, it didn't say, "Wake up the world, get everybody started, we have a long road ahead of us." No, it said, "Let them know now because it may be too late later." This is it. This is the time to know. This is the end of the movie for us.

We Are a Transitional Form

We are a transitional form. We are here to be the midwife of the future, which means to the program that we are just something that is taken advantage of. That isn't necessarily comforting to us individually, and particularly to those of us who are 'abnormal,' who are trying to find a way to express what is our particular identity.

The Program Is Moving Towards No Self Identity

The program is moving towards something that has no identity, where the self is lost. It's moving towards a new Right so far away from what we are, so far away from what we just left behind. And it is through us that we can see these two great ways in which the brain system operates, and we carry the balance within us. And that we no longer have to be ill equipped to be able to deal with the unusualness of this phenomena, because it's different.

It is only now that science is beginning to understand that there is really this bizarre difference that is emerging in the way in which we take in information. They don't have the language yet; we do.

The Mind Is a Part of the Evolution of the Form Principle

I look back at the strategic and I see that the world of mind is part of the evolution of the form principle. Mind had to express itself. Lao Tzu would have gained nothing for the movement of evolution by pulling everybody back to a faux Neanderthal whatever. No, it had to happen. It is what happened, and it's all ok, but it's over.

We don't need to carry that with us now. We don't need to distort the potential of our children because we homogenize them into a certain way of understanding how they process information. And we have to begin to see we owe nothing to the past.

When Cro-Magnon was walking by a settlement of Neanderthals it wasn't like they got nostalgic. I am not nostalgic about the seven centered being because I know it was more primitive than me. I know that in no way did it have the potential that's here in this form. I've got a souped-up box Uranian vehicle, unlike anything that's ever been seen on this planet.

The Nine Centered Body Is Different from the Seven Centered Body

We have totally different bodies than the seven centered being, inside and out, totally different body temperature, totally different brain structure. And yet, think about everything that we live with on this plane. It all came from seven centered minds.

Look at the people that they bow down to, the Jesus's, Muhammad's, whatever; that's seven centered. For me they're just kind of past species. They may have been very good in their time for their kind, but they have no value to this kind because the nature of our lives is not determined by those who call us to follow.

Our lives are determined by our own truth. Seven centered beings didn't operate that way. They operated out of mental fear and manipulation. It's what the strategic does so well. It is the way in which we all have been moved and coerced by our societies into acting only in certain ways. There are things you will not do when you walk out there. They'll come in a paddy wagon and take you away, put you in a padded cell.

The Homogenized World Is Addicted to Strategy

The homogenized world is so addicted to seven centeredness, it's so addicted to strategy, to its Leftness. This whole planet is addicted to fear. Half of the people on this planet, in this room, are not about that at all, so they end up being conditioned deeper to it than anyone else. Oh boy, do we have a lot fear, endless fear. It doesn't belong to us, this survival fear.

If you have to survive by your mind, life's a bitch, it's a trial and a burden. What a movie. How many things to process, how many things to deal with, how many answers to find, how many things to doubt, to question. Once the mind gets into running your life, everything is strategy.

But this knowledge says, "Hey, excuse me, we don't make decisions with our mind." That changes everything. Everything about being strategic was the mental decision. Neanderthal heard sounds coming through its body and thought, "Wow, where did all that come from?" Cro-Magnon felt sounds coming through its body and said, "Did you hear what I just said? This is mine and I'm going to convert it into whatever I like."

We Are Not the Creatures from the Past

We have to go back to a kind of neo-neo Neanderthal. It's just moving through. Everything that I have been talking about, all our time together, it's about the same thing. You cannot be this creature that we are. And we are really something special, and we haven't seen it yet. Not tomorrow, but the day after when I do the Right, I will give you a taste of what an incredible potential that is there in half of humanity that cannot be expressed, that nobody recognizes, that it is not respected, because nobody understands what we are. We are not those creatures from the past.

You know those lovely drawings where you see the monkey ending up being a human? Those were the monkeys behind us: Galileo, Shakespeare, Buddha. We're different. All those seven centered beings with their seven centered trips were all teaching you the same thing: how to survive, how to manipulate the Maia, how to control the Maia. It was all about control. And for those that couldn't control the Maia were given a god that would do it for them. Let God control you. God still to this day controls a lot of people.

We live with all of that; it's all around us. People are addicted to that seven centeredness. And they're addicted more now than when they were actually seven centered because they're not really that thing anymore. We're not that anymore. We're not supposed to be controlling the world through our minds.

We Are Here to Be in the Dance

By this time, we're here to be in the dance. We're not here to be in conflict with this plane, that everything about being in this world is nothing but struggle. What madness is that? That this is the planet of suffering that everybody has to have a hard time, that nobody can really be happy, that everybody has to be poor. That people are butchered every day. This is what we got from the seven centered being. This is their game. It's how they conquered the world. It's how they killed everything that was in their way.

It's not like that is something you want to carry over. That's a great tradition, thank you. I'm not one of those creatures. You can see inside that they're different. It's like that science fiction movie where you open up the body and it's like "Oh, that's different. That's not one of us."

They were not one of us. Why should I care what Jesus said? He was talking to seven centered beings; good for them. Mohammad, too; all of them. It's really good if you're a seven centered being. Terrific, thank you very much. But that's not us. It has nothing to do with us. It is not the way in which we are here to be governed.

I saw this absolutely incredible cartoon the other day in El País, the Spanish newspaper. It's a bubble caption from the earth. It says, "Freedom from dictatorship of the sun; let's have our free orbit." That's a great cartoon with the absurdity of it. It's wonderful; the madness of our plane. We're not those things.

There is a part of you, I know, that does not believe me. What to do. I just give messages. But I'm telling you, we are not the same creatures. Let me put it to you this way. Would you ask for medical advice from your dog? Would you? Would you ask a baboon for moral advice? Would you? Maybe Jane Goodall would; I don't know.

Because that's the way I feel about the seven centered being. It has nothing to do with me. Oh yes, we have certain DNA we have in common, but I've got DNA in common with a fruit fly. It doesn't mean I take business advice from them.

We Are Different and New

Until we understand that we are not just different, we are new, only then can we start fresh. If you're carrying all this stuff—because it's stuff, it's not our stuff. The seven centered being says the only way to survive is kill. The nine centered being says the only way to survive is to go "Uh-huh, or Uh-uh, and I don't know if that means killing or not, but I know I'll make it."

That's a very different movie. And it has nothing to do with the mind. We don't have to worry about proving how smart we are. The ancient Chinese were the worst in the smart, classification business. This is not what we're about. And yet, we're all raised this way. You're supposed to be intelligent in a certain way, to be able to perform in a certain way, we are all conditioned to be intelligent in a certain way, and that is not what we are.

The Key of Strategy and Authority

Our intelligence does not come out in the way in which our mind manipulates our lives. Our intelligence only begins to emerge when we physically are attuned to this plane. Every evolution brings, as a mutation, something that obviously is something that is an enriching agent, otherwise, it would not survive.

There is a place for this mutation. It has now dominated the planet. And what is so incredible about this mutation—us, nine centered beings—is that we have been given the keys to the kingdom. It's like looking at the old seven centered history and holding up the key of Strategy and Authority and going, "na, na, na, na, na."

For ninety thousand years they were killing each other. You don't have to do that because our question is not, "Are we going to survive?" Because that disappears the moment that you truly have entered into this experiment because you know your body will look after you.

The seven centered being knew nothing about this. There was never any safety net. And they had Saturnian bodies that basically used up by 30. We are so different. You think the program is going to give us a body that on average is good for 84 years if we're going to have to spend the whole time trying to stay alive? It's not why we were given these vehicles because it's easy to maintain them.

Stop Being Seven Centered

And it goes back to that wonderful little step. You stop being seven centered. You stop being a monkey. You stop being some other species. Because we are not here to control our lives through our minds. This is the disease. This is the curse. This is where all the pain in the life of the nine centered being is because we are not Left. We are this and that, we are a dualism. We are deeply complex and far more advanced. We are capable of a consciousness that far exceeds anything that the seven centered being could experience.

Where did they ever go? Anybody who had anything intelligent to say was killed. We're very different. We do not have to fight with our minds. We do not have to defend with our minds. We do not need to attack with our minds. We do not need to be on the defensive.

And every life that is not-self, the mind is always rooted in the strategic, "Oh my goodness, I have to watch out for that, I have to take care of that. Uh oh, that's coming." All that stuff. This is what it is to be seven centered. This is why these people went nuts controlling this planet. There is no peace in that.

If your life is about survival, you have no life. You truly do not. You can see that in the world, if you're life is about survival there is no room for anything. We are bioforms. Survival will always come first.

The Need to Know How to Survive

So, you have to know how to survive. When we train our children to seven centered strategic thought, we're not training them for survival. We're training them for punishment and pain. We're not training them how to deal with this plane, how to be free of the fear of survival.

This is the magic of Strategy and Authority, what it means to have an Inner Authority, a place within you that is non-mental, a place within you that is so deeply connected to what is this deep physical consciousness we have.

This is the difference between us and the seven centered being. The seven centered being only saw that there was this one consciousness, this mind. And mind was everything and controlled everything. And here we come.

And us? We know what mind is, and we know that it can be useful. But it cannot run our lives. It's like looking at the Godhead yesterday. All these fingers grabbing into you, all that stuff programming you all the time. You do not break the covenant. You are lost because it is only fear that drives you. And you listen to your minds. You think that what they're telling you is necessarily important. You take is seriously and you do things about it, and you are forever lost in the seven centered trap.

Living Anthropology by Ra

I'd like to take the not-self and put them in the San Diego Zoo and put them on display. Take a look at what seven centered beings were like. Living anthropology by Ra. I don't like them and I don't like the idea of Raves either. It's not like I'm a big fan of what is coming, I'm not. I'm not even seriously interested other than my responsibilities as a teacher. I am interested in this, I'm interested in my kind. You're my kind. And it's time you woke up to understanding what that means.

This is what it's about. Until there are those that truly understand that we are different, we are nine centered beings, we are truly different. We are different in our cognitive potential; we are different in the way we are here to master the experience of being on this plane. But it means you have to come to grips with the acceptance of what guides us, what is there to guide us is not what we have always relied on—mind.

How are you ever going to get to your signature, how are you ever going to get to the beauty of what it is to be here? Your mind always gets in the way. It's such a spoiled sport. It just gets in the way. It doesn't want you to have a good ride. It's addicted to the old way because it gave it power. The seven centered mind was the most powerful thing that ever existed. Literally, look at what it did. But it's gone. They're dead.

They're not here anymore. They're not in this world. This world rightfully belongs to us. And part of our process is to break this hold of the seven centered consciousness on this plane, because when I talk about not-self, that's all I'm describing, nothing but the survival mechanism and the way it's distorted through all its possible presentations.

Inner Authority

I am so sick and tired of frightened people. What a trip; human beings. If I were a dog, I'd be sick because they smell fear. I'm glad I don't smell it. I just feel it in my aura, and I don't like it. I don't get it. If you have a Strategy and Authority, if you have an Inner Authority, even if it's nebulous like mine, this bizarre Spleen, you never have to worry again as along as you live.

There is nothing that can challenge me, I'm equipped. I don't know how, it's not a mental thing. I can't navigate this plane with my mind. That's disaster; been there, done that, messy, messy. But my Spleen knows how to navigate this Maia. At the helm, just moving along, really nice. It's what makes us different.

As long as we're stuck in the mental game, we're stuck in history, primitive. And these things are repeated over and over again. Look at our world. Look at the billions of people on this planet that are controlled absolutely by some priesthood, some strategic manipulation, and what they will do for that to prove their worthiness, to prove that they're just as strategic and competitive as everybody else, that they know how to defend themselves and know what to fight for.

It's not like I'm a peacenik, I'm not. I'm not a moralist. Whatever is correct for me is ok, no matter what it looks like. But what I see out there is just the old seven centered way of doing things and everything is distorted because nobody has any natural grounding. Nobody can stand within themselves and not be overwhelmed by this fear that drives their mind.

To be Nine Centered One Needs to Give Up the Fear

You cannot become a nine centered being until you give up that fear. It's why this is an experiment, one person at a time, to find out whether you can find that place in you and recognize that it protects you, because it does. And the longer you do it, the more you understand it will always protect you. It is the wisdom of your form.

We are a dualism. The quality is everything. It is the formula. We need to come to grips with our duality and surrender to their natural functions, an Inner Authority, that guides our decision making process and maintains our well being on this plane. And a mental Outer Authority that makes for good conversation, that brings a new level to consciousness.

One of the many things that I talk about is the relationship between Projectors and Generators. They make up about 88% of the planet. The great dilemma between Generators and Projectors is consciousness. This is the dilemma. Unless you can speak from true Outer Authority, unless you can speak without agenda, unless you can speak from a mind that is making decisions, you cannot communicate cleanly with anyone.

The Not-Self Is Dishonest

What the fear in human beings lead to are the lies that they live with, the lies they live with about themselves, the lies that they live with in terms of others, how dishonest the not-self is about themselves, how difficult for them to see what they have become.

This mind is a horror. I'll tell you about the beauty if we ever get to the other side. When I do the Outer Authority on Sunday, I'll give you a glimpse of how magical it is, how incredible it is what we are. But it has to come out, and it's not coming out. It's buried underneath all of this old strategic manipulation. We have still not shed it.

Wherever you look, the very languages we speak were created by seven centered beings. The architecture we live in, the machines we have, the science we have, is all inherited from them, their gods, their messengers, their prophets, their gurus, their 'this,' their 'that.'

We Don't Know What We Are

We are not like that, and yet we don't know what we are. Think about the Generator, mystically the Generator is called the builder. They built the world; after all, they're the life force. But they built the world as Manifestors, or as slaves, one or the other. So, we end up in their world.

Look at this room. Who would design a room like this? Why does it have to be like this? It's one of the things I loved about Gaudí, in Barcelona. The guy was off the wall. "Let's have a little curve here, a little this here." We don't do that. Pythagoras, all these right angles—no offense to right angles. Being left angle myself, I don't want to create any offense there.

But what would the world look like if the builders built correctly, if the builders built in response? What would architecture look like? We don't know. Please hear that statement because it's so profound, it's shattering. We're not even living in our world. All these tools that are around us, all these things, they're not ours.

The Change in 2027

This is not yet a place for nine centered beings. The crunch will come in 2027. The Cross of Planning will leave. All this fuzzy wuzzy communal stuff is going to go out the door real fast. Human beings are going to be forced into their own trip. We will have to discover our nine centeredness or disappear.

But now there is the deep propaganda conditioning and complacency of humanity locked in a seven centered trip. And all we have is a world of fear and want and suffering. We have to come to grips with what it is to be us. We have to begin to live as us, as nine centered beings, create as nine centered beings, live as nine centered beings and change our world. Not because it's an agenda, but because it's the natural outcome of our correctness.

Don't take this world and its stuff for granted. Think of yourself as an alien because you are. And we are newly arrived; a few hundred years or so, we are newly arrived. And we are getting used to the place. It's our time to take what is within us and transform the nature of our world. We do that through education. We do that one person at a time trusting an Inner Authority that automatically introduces them to what it is to be us, a nine centered being.

September for us at Jovian is where we really begin our year, like schools; it's the beginning of our normal cycle. Every September for me is always exciting because—I guess it's the Manifestor in me—but we seem to be innovating every year that we go along.

This September something really special is happening. It's something that is made possible by my students. When I began teaching interactively on the IHDS, I began the PHS and Rave Psychology programs. They are three year programs, basically 100 lecture programs. They're the most sophisticated, the deepest teaching I have ever done in the knowledge.

There are many byproducts of that. That is, the tools that have been developed out of a deeper understanding of the way in which we operate both in terms of the vehicle as well as the consciousness, the passenger. In September we open the Center for Human Differentiation. It is very much apropos of my conversation, dialogue, or monologue with you tonight about coming to grips with what it is to become a nine centered being.

The Center for Human Differentiation is actually the first time that an environment is going to be established that is there to be of service to our kind, and to be able to provide the information necessary for the well-being of our kind. And the well-being of our kind is a duality, it is a binary trip.

Everything Begins with Inner Authority

When I look at the process in Design, the obvious to me is you have to find your Inner Authority because this is where everything begins. And to understand how densely adults are conditioned in every conceivable level and begin to see that without the seven year deconditioning process, you really can't get to the place where you can begin to do the real work.

Human beings, adults, are deeply conditioned. The seven year cycle is something that is a great advantage for us, because this has to do with the cellular balance, the way in which the old is removed and the new is brought in, the seven year cellular transformation that takes place.

It is a renewal; but it's more than that. What I want you to see from what I'm sharing with you today is that when you enter into honoring your Inner Authority, you're actually beginning the process for the first time of being a nine centered being. This is the beginning of what it is to be a nine centered being. This is the beginning of changing history, freeing ourselves from the traps that the seven centered being left us; being free of that.

It begins with this process of recognizing that the Inner Authority is not something that is mental. The key to our survival, to our protection, to our success, to our well-being, to the potential of the beauty of the process of being on this plane is all in the same place. It lies within that Inner Authority.

The dilemma is that we went from Neanderthal that was totally body to the Cro-Magnon, the seven centered that was totally mind, and we are this transitional form that is finding its balance. We are not the past. We are neither Cro-Magnon nor Neanderthal; we are neither five nor seven. But in fact, we are a way in which all of that potential is housed within us.

The Incarnation Crosses

The first really incredible thing about Human Design was just laying out the graph. I still remember here on my sweet Ibiza drawing out that graph and looking at it. You look at that thing and there was a wheel on the left and a wheel on the right, and this BodyGraph in the center. (Mandala of the Sphinx)

I looked at that wheel on the left and the wheel on the right and it was like—you know the Crosses, think about the Sphinx. We know what the Sphinx is. Throughout seven centered history the Sphinx was always a mystery and the Sphinx was a mystery because the only pseudo-science that they had that could penetrate such things, astrology, didn't recognize an Earth, only through the Sun.

It's an interesting thing when you look at somebody who is a Sphinx and you put the two wheels on either side of the BodyGraph and there is this polarity over here and this polarity over here, and magically you bring them together and they form a cross. Oh, the magic of seeing that cross.

You think about what Crosses are. It is this incredible magic of bringing together a fusion of these two consciousnesses that are us. We are a binary consciousness; we are of two minds. We're different. The moment you enter into the experiment, the moment that you find your Inner Authority, this is when you first begin to take your baby steps as a nine centered being.

Inner Authority Takes Away Fear and Protects

And while you're doing that, there is something happening. What's happening is that your splenic system, your immune system is beginning to relax. Everybody who enters into Human Design knows that if you're in the experiment long enough you begin to feel better. The reason you begin to feel better is actually because there is less fear in your body. It's why you feel better. There is less fear.

The first thing that Inner Authority does is it talks to the Splenic immune system and says, it's ok, don't worry, everything is under control. Somebody asks me something I go uh-huh, everything is ok, I don't have to worry, you don't have to worry. Don't get uptight, everything is terrific. Because that's what Inner Authority does.

Inner Authority says, you were afraid of that, you idiot. That's nothing. That's just a thing going by. Don't get stuck on that thing. Because what you're going to discover is that your Inner Authority knows when it has to make a decision, and it will look after you.

The first moment that you really get it—you have to really get it, it's very deep—that your Inner Authority is going to protect you is the first chance that you have to notice that you can actually like yourself. It's the first chance. I'm not talking about love; I'm talking about like. It's like, "Hey, that's not so bad. I could get used to this."

It's not this, "Oh well, I'm wonderful." That's my trip. I've been doing it forever, folks. I've been doing it so long that I adore myself. It's what my wife says.

First it starts with Inner Authority. It's Inner Authority that starts taking away the fear because then the mind doesn't have this (sound). The moment that the Inner Authority takes away a little fear, that little thing that your authority moves you to that you see it's good, that's one of those strikes against the mind. That's the Inner Authority going to the mind and saying, "You couldn't have done that. You wouldn't know how to do that. You never would have said yes to that." And the mind is going, "No, I never would have said yes to that." "And why did you?"

The Mind Is Hooked on Fears

It's the moment that you begin to see that the mind is nothing but hooked on fears. There is a real problem. The moment that you really find your Inner Authority, you have to do something for your mind quickly, because it doesn't know what to do. It's never been allowed to just be. It always had an agenda, it's always been after things. It's always carried your burden, your worries. It doesn't know what to do so you have to give it something to do.

Allow Your Mind to Watch Your Life

You allow it to watch your life. Everybody in Human Design knows that. You learn something about a Gate, a Line, a Channel, and then you experience it with somebody that you're with, or you experience it coming out of you, and it's like "Oh yeah, it's the program." It changes everything. We're here to move away from mind having to worry about us, so that mind can actually be intelligent, because that's our gift. We are here to have the most profound sensory display ever.

Variables

First of all, it begins with Inner Authority. But there is more that you can do. Last semester in the IHDS, I taught a course called Variables. Variables are the most incredible thing that I know in Human Design, which is saying a lot. The Variable is basically made up of the Tonal influence on your Sun/Earths and your Nodes, both the Design and Personality.

There are actually 16 different ways that Variables manifest as a pattern. When you see all the Variables laid out in a mat, you get to see the true order. That is, you get to see the way in which mechanically, everything has a place, has a direction, has a perspective, has a unique positioning, a unique form for a unique environment to express its unique potential.

The Not-Self World

I cannot recover the natural order. It's been gone for a long time. The seven centered being moved us far away from the natural order. We are not where we're supposed to be. We are not nourished the way we were intended to be nourished. We do not live our lives the way we are intended to do so. We do not make decisions in the way in which it is correct. So, we are not where we are supposed to be, and we are not with whom we are supposed to be. This is the not-self world.

Nothing that I do in my life, nothing in my teaching can change that. But there is a potential for each of us to move closer and closer to our aspect in that order so that we can fulfill our potential.

I'm a 5/1, I teach what's practical. There's no point in teaching anything else. And it is something to understand about what it means to work on your process. Half of the people, half of all the children being born, are Right children, and these children are suffering. And there is nobody, no one that is preparing the way for them.

The Right Being Doesn't Know How to Protect Themselves

The Right doesn't know how to protect themselves. Half of you in here don't know how to protect yourselves because you're not born with it. In the past, everybody was born with it. Everybody was born with this fundamental survival fear because everyone was Left. But now half of us are Right. And the Right is sitting there, taking in and it isn't figuring out. It doesn't know how to protect itself.

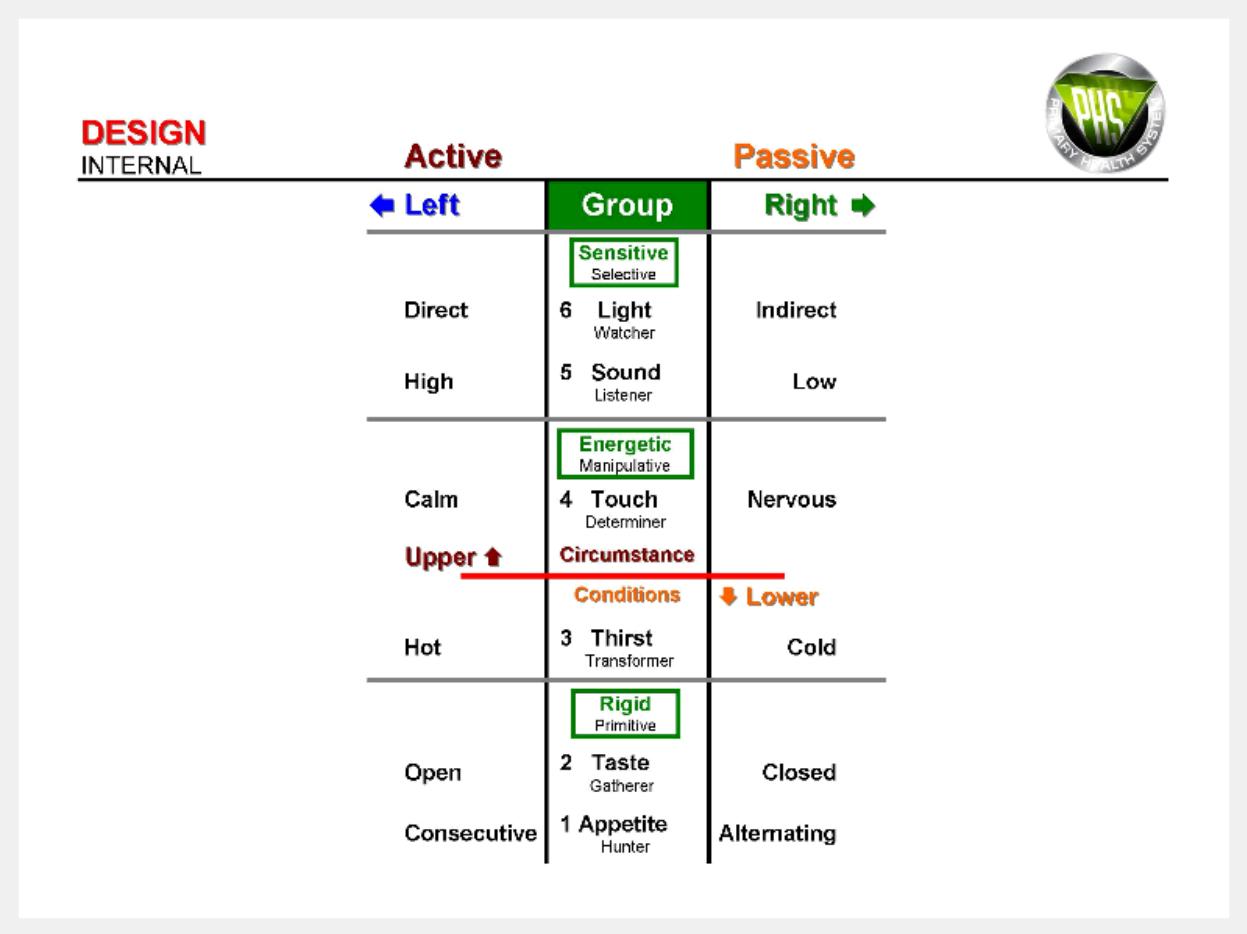
All the Right beings have been conditioned to be strategic. So, take the example of somebody that is Left, and they enter into their experiment with Human Design. You say to them, "Look, go into your experiment, find your Inner Authority, come and see me in seven years. And if everything is ok, I'll take you a little further.

"Because you're Left, you have a narrow agenda. Work on your agenda and everything will be ok. You're not going to be able to figure it all out, because quite frankly, you're not that smart. You're just going to have that agenda and you're going to focus on that. You take that, you follow that strategy, you're going to end up with a much better life; period." Just Inner Authority.

But if you're Right, you are so deeply homogenized it's spooky. You're so concerned about your survival, it's almost insane. And Inner Authority is always the answer, but there is more that can be done.

PHS

PHS is one of the most incredible things. It's incredible for me because the PHS dietary regimen says that each and every one of us truly is unique. Not only are we truly unique, but we are designed to be able to support our uniqueness through precise and exact nutrition. The seven centered being destroyed us through food. When you're dealing with a competitive survival strategic creature, getting all the food, controlling the food, mixing the food, having lots of food, the way we feed our young is done with incredibly ignorance.



Neural Shutdown

I want you to think about what happens in our brains. In the first three years of our life, the average human being suffers what is called neural shutdown. From the moment you come out of the womb, your brain is, in a sense, expanding. Neural networks are being opened up with the stimulus of life.

At the age of 3, 97% of the human race has neural shutdown. They have discovered through research that wasn't directly that, but part of a long-term research of prodigy children, genius children, that on average they have neural shutdown when they are 5. Now, I know that neural shutdown should not take place until you're 7. It's a seven-year cycle, like anything else.

But the child that comes into the world that is immediately homogenized, homogenized through diet, by not being treated correctly—if you've got a Generator baby, you do not stick a spoon in its mouth. How can you do that? "Would you like this?" "Uh-uh." Give the baby a chance to be real.

Something to understand that in order for us to be able to liberate the next generation, that they have to be raised correctly. I don't hammer PHS at adults because it is so radical. It is so radical in the way it's going to change the social dynamic of your life. So radical in the way in which affects other people around you. But if you're somebody who is Right, you need to eat right, right away. There are too many 'rights' in there—it's all right. [Laughter]

The Right Being Is Deeply Homogenized

These are human beings that have been so deeply homogenized because the moment they came into the world they've been trained to be strategic. There is that receptive baby, the Right baby, and it's lying there, all it's doing is taking in the world around it. That's perfect. Absolute brown study, no real focus. The baby is sort of back there going goo gooing it's way, taking in the universe.

And there comes this huge face that hangs over it and says, "Look over here. Are you ok? Something is wrong with the baby. I bought this brand new toy with this dingy, and it never dingy dingys." Strategic babies will pull the dingy.

Receptive babies don't care. And you've got parents going, "Play with the dingy." They hang it in its face, putting its little hand on it. And the child is already being conditioned.

And there is a caveman child, needing to eat one thing at a time. There's the mother with the latest carrots, peas, oranges, and lots of vitamins, mixing it up and putting it in the mouth. Here is this baby born to be a caveman who is only going to be able to express their purity through having one thing at a time.

The Right Are Conditioned by Food

If you're Right, you have been conditioned so deeply by food. Forget about mind. McDonalds, these great homogenizing food factories of the world, is where everybody eats the same garbage in the same way. You don't know how to live as a nine centered being. We don't even know how to eat. We're eating like old monkeys from way back. It's not what we're about.

The other thing is we are not homogenized. This is the great myth. We are really unique. Think about what happens to children in a boarding school. They've got the same frustrated cook who produces all the same food that goes into them at the same time in the same way, wearing the same uniform, all listening to the same stuff. And we expect out of that we are going to produce healthy citizens, that we're going to produce human beings that are going to make a contribution. All you get is more pillars to maintain the not-self madness of this world.

The thing about PHS is it says something that is even more incredible than that. It says, not only is there a unique dietary regimen for you that is going to help you clean up the mess in here, but there is a secret as well. We all have an environment that nurtures us.

The Environment

The seven centered being said, "I'm going to live wherever I want." That's a seven centered being, right? They'll build an igloo in the North; they'll build their little straw hut on the equator. They'll live anywhere in the sea, down below, in space, wherever. “We’ll live wherever, we don’t care.”

One out of every three Americans moves every two years. It’s an amazing statistic. The seven centered being is a nomadic rapacious creature, ready to live in any environment, control any environment. Look at Phoenix or Las Vegas, unbelievable. A hole in the middle of the desert, with swimming pools and fountains and artificial lakes. That’s the seven centered consciousness for you.

It’s not who we are. We have a place, each and every one of us. Not a place on a map, it has nothing to do with a place on a map. It has to do with a relative environment around us. That’s what it has to do with.

Keep Your Body Healthy

And that relative environment is connected to the Nodes and the Nodes are connected to our Uranian life. We’ll talk about that tomorrow. What it is to be one of these creatures in one of these bodies, this Uranian body, you’ve got to keep it healthy. It’s for the long run. We are here to be vital late into our lives.

Frankly, I don’t feel like 60. I don’t have that sensation. I used to think it was LSD. Now, I think it’s my nine centered body. My nine centered body still feels young. It says there’s time. For most of our history, when you got to be 30, you thought you were lucky to be alive. We have these different vehicles.

Yet, you cannot take it for granted that this vehicle is going to be healthy for the run if you’re running around with a seven centered consciousness, that you don’t know how to eat, where to live, or make a decision.

For those beings that are Right, they need all the help they can get. You give me a Right being that is in crisis and I’ll save their life just by putting them in the right place, just that, without them even knowing what that’s all about, because people don’t understand this. They don’t understand that we are unique. They don’t understand what uniqueness means.

Uniqueness Is a Holistic Phenomenon

Uniqueness is something that is a holistic phenomenon that connects to every aspect to your existence on this plane. We're not just unique in the way in which we're configured, we're unique in the way we see and the way in which we are, the way in which we digest and metabolize. We're unique in everything. It's what makes us so interesting, us nine centered beings.

The seven centered being had a problem: no map. They didn't know the way it worked. They had no idea. We have a map. We know how it works. And we know how it works because this is what we're supposed to be able to get past.

Just Live Human Design

Quite frankly, if it weren't my job—and I don't want to mess with my bosses—I wouldn't think about Human Design, I would just live my life because that's what it's here for, for the grace of living this life. That once you're correct in this life and it's natural for you, life is just what it is. Your purpose expresses itself and flows out of you naturally.

You don't have to look for these things. This is the seven centered consciousness. Seven centered consciousness says, "I'm going to go find enlightenment. It must be the next guru. I'm going to find it. We're going to hunt it down." You don't hunt it down. First you give it up completely. It's a mind trip. What do you think enlightenment is? We don't know what it means. You have no idea what it means to have your minds liberated.

Old Seven Centered Stories Have Nothing to Do with Us

All we have are old stories from seven centered beings about what it's like. I know that we don't have halos. There must have been a flaw in their electricity. We're on the other side of the movie; we're in the form. Seven centered beings hate the form. Everything was anti-form. All the religions say that you get your reward when you're dead. How does anybody go for a game like that? I don't get it. "Oh, we have a great reward for you when you're dead." And then they tell you it's not good to commit suicide. Who can figure that? I don't understand that.

I also don't understand where they get all the virgins, because if I understood that, I would take advantage of that. I don't know how they do that. It's always when you're dead. It's so unfair. The seven centered being says, "You be good in this life, you sacrifice, and when you're dead..." And it's like they believe that. And how does the person tell them, "No." You know the guy that trains the suicide bomber, talk about salesmanship. "When you're dead, big stuff comes your way."

It's why I don't like Buddha. Buddha said, "Look, let's control the body and then we'll leave. Let me out. I want out." Everything is out. The lights go out when you go out. Dead is not a big thing for me. Living is good. This is where the movie is; it's not afterwards.

I don't really get that. The moment that you understand the program, you realize that the thing that makes us conscious is this box. You take the Personality Crystal out of the box, it's like taking the disc out of the machine. "Where's my program? I thought I was going to be able to talk to my children from up here. Where's my program?"

There is this assumption that there is this whole big party going on. And these places are crowded. What I don't like about heaven is that they don't let dogs in. What did they do? I don't get it. Dogs are not allowed to go to heaven. They're better off living. You can tell the way they enjoy it.

It's all madness. It's not us; otherwise, we couldn't laugh at it. It's old, primitive stuff and has nothing to do with us. And you watch all these people all over this planet saying, "When I die, Jesus is coming for me." Boy, he's going to be busy. What a trip. That's a lot of work. I can't figure out a God, anyway, that is hearing everybody's prayers. How do you do that without a lot of staff?

Finding Your Own Truth

It's here, it's in us. It's not anywhere else. It's not anybody else's rules. It's not anybody else's authority. It certainly isn't any of their old authority. We have to find our own. It's why we are so vulnerable, and we are. Because we have to find what we are; we have to live it. We begin to recognize it amongst each other because we recognize the mechanisms in each other. We begin to see that this is the way it actually works, slowly but surely, we become the vanguard of expressing what is new.

And the bedrock of that is Inner Authority. It's the only place that you can start. It's the only place where you can begin to let go of such madness. And you can begin to find your truth, not mine. I've got mine; it's ok. I don't need you to have mine. You have to have yours. The sooner you have your truth, the more interesting it is for me to be here. This is what we're about. We're the finest expression of the potential of consciousness that's ever been on this plane. It doesn't look like that on the surface, but I see deep underneath what's there. It's remarkable what we're capable of, but you have to get there. It's the journey.

To all of you, that was a good one. I hope you enjoyed that. Until tomorrow.
